critical built heritage practice and conservation evolving perspectives supports an alternative point of departure for engaging with the historic built environment by critically questioning the legitimacy of dominant conservation concepts and methods that are often taken for granted within building conservation architecture and adaptive reuse the meaning of heritage is changing from pastness to presentness from preservation to participation and from tangible to intangible heritage is increasingly understood as a dynamic social and intangible process across many disciplines consequently the role and remit of the built heritage practitioner and in particular the architectural conservationist is becoming progressively complex and in need of a critical gaze is restoration really a falsehood from beginning to end should the condition of existing materials determine the conservation method is authenticity really an inherent quality within old buildings by engaging with a critical interpretation of heritage this book makes space for practitioners to consider the evolution of their own role within a rapidly changing context of built heritage practice reinforced by a shift in emphasis from materials to meanings a socio material outlook is proposed which champions an enhanced focus on intangible heritage within the built heritage sector whilst still acknowledging the physical condition of old buildings is a priority for many stakeholders this book has been written with practitioners students and educators of architectural conservation in mind although will also be of relevance to the broader built heritage industry as well as academics researchers and heritage students with a passion for contemporary dialogues in heritage studies this book makes a significant contribution to the on going international dialogue on the meaning of concepts such as human rights humanity and cosmopolitanism the authors propose a new agenda for research into a critical theory of human rights each chapter pursues three goals to reconstruct modern philosophical theories that have contributed to our views on human rights to highlight the importance of humanity and human dignity as a complementary dimension to liberal rights and finally to integrate these issues more directly in contemporary discussions about cosmopolitanism the authors not only present multicultural perspectives on how to rethink political and international theory in terms of the normativity of human rights but also promote an international dialogue on the prospects for a critical theory of human rights discourses in the 21st century the 1960s and 1970s avant garde has been likened to an architectural big bang such was the intensity of energy and ambition in which it exploded into the postwar world marked out by architectural projects that redefined the discipline it remains just as influential today references to the likes of archizoom peter eisenman john hejduk and superstudio abound highly diverse the avant garde cannot be defined as a single strand or tendency it was divergent geographically reaching from europe to north america and japan and in its political formal and cultural preoccupations it was unified though as a critical and experimental force critiquing contemporary society against the backdrop of extreme social and political upheaval the paris riots of may 1968 the anti vietnam war movement in america and the looming ecological crisis re imagining the avant garde outlines how in contemporary architectural practice avant garde projects retain their power as historical precedents as barometers of a particular design ethos as critiques of society and instigators of new formal techniques given the far reaching impact of the subsequent digital revolution which has since reshaped every aspect of practice the issue asks why this historical period continues to retain its undeniable grip on current architecture contributors pablo bronstein and sam jacob sarah deyoung stylianos giamarelos damjan jovanovic andrew kovacs perry kulper igor marjanovic william menking michael sorkin neil spiller and mimi zeiger featured architects archizoom andrea branzi jimenez lai luis miguel koldo lus arana klaus nemestudio superstudio and urbanlab
